MUST DESTROY SLOT MACHINES

Judge Sadler, Presiding in Adams
County Court, Suspends Sentence on George Pettis and Orders Devices Destroyed.

At a session of Adams County Court this morning George Pettis pleaded guilty to a charge of having gambling machines at his shoe shining establishment on Chambersburg street. Judge Sadler, of Cumberland county, presiding, suspended sentence until April Court when it will be finally suspended provided Mr. Pettis is not found guilty of any similar offense in the meantime.

The machines are to be destroyed and the costs will be paid by Pettis. The affair proving rather expensive as one of the devices was of quite a substantial and elaborate character. Whether or not the loss will fall to Pettis or to the party owning and renting the machine is not known.

The resignation of William H. Frock as tax collector of the borough of Gettysburg was received and accepted. Three applicants were named to fill Mr. Frock's unexpired term, Ernest G. Weaver, Harry E. Bombaugh and Peter Culp. For Mr. Weaver, Robert E. Wible, Esq., presented a petition signed by five town councilmen and two county commissioners together with a number of other citizens. Both other applicants had largely signed petitions presented.

The matter was referred to the associate judges who appointed Peter Culp.

An unsuccessful effort was made by Edward A. Weaver, Esq., to secure the release of Jason Seiffert on habeas corpus proceedings. Seiffert is the youth charged with shooting an accomplice in the Iron Springs shooting affair.

PLANS FOR THE SUMMER SCHOOL

Various Courses to be Offered those who will Attend Summer School
Preceding the Chautauqua Period.
Want Rooms.

The Gettysburg Summer School will open on the eighteenth of June and continue for six weeks, closing just as the Chautauqua opens. Enrollments for the school are now being made.

The normal department will provide three courses divided according to the three classes of teachers' certificates. Teachers who wish to review the common branches will be enrolled in the provisional certificate course. Courses in History of Education and Pedagogy may be substituted for other work. The professional certificate course is based on the subjects required for this certificate and including History of Education, Psychology of Education and Pedagogy. The permanent certificate course makes the subjects required for this certificate the basis of the work together with such other subjects as the student may wish to elect. The fundamental aim is to furnish the best possible help to the teachers who wish to avail themselves of the privileges of the school.

The academic department will provide courses in college preparatory work and for the making up of deficiencies in the college grades.

Gettysburg has been an educational center almost from the time of its incorporation as a borough. The Summer School and the Chautauqua are in line with a movement that is sweeping the whole country, whose aim is cultural advancement and we are therefore simply keeping true to the history of the place in fostering these movements.

The Summer School will require rooms and board for its students. The principal, Prof. C. F. Sanders, is receiving requests for rooms and he should like to secure the names and rates of the people in town who can take students for the term. Those who have rooms to let will confer a favor by reporting same to Prof. Sanders.

FIGHT READING FREIGHT RATES

County Farmers who Sell Milk to Local Receiving Stations Interested in Contention with Reading over Raise.

Adams County farmers who take their milk to the various receiving stations on the Philadelphia and Reading railroad will be interested to know that the contented advance in the cost of transportation of milk to Philadelphia by the railroad company is likely to be called to the attention of the State Railroad Commission.

Last year, when the Reading indicated its purpose to de-freight its cars during the summer of 1912, that company gave notice it expected to be compensated for such special service. This, it said would be by a reasonable or moderate increase, probably not exceeding 20 per cent. in the present freight rate.

If, therefore, the complaint be filed with the Commission it will be as to whether the increased rate is excessive. Up to the present time the Commission has not been apprised that it will be asked to consider the proposed increase. Judging from the agitation among the members of the Milk Producers' Association a hearing is probable.

The Philadelphia Evening Bulletin published the above facts on Thursday.

ROOSEVELT DENIES THREATENING BOLT

Didn't Intimate He Would Lead
Third Party.

St. Louis, Mo., March 29.—Reports from Chicago that Colonel Roosevelt in his speeches there and in a talk to precinct leaders had intimated his readiness to bolt and form a new national party, in event of his defeat for the Republican presidential nomination, brought from the former president a vigorous denial soon after his arrival here.

"Any statement like that is untrue," he said. "Any time I have anything to say on that subject I will say it myself and anything purporting to come from me unless I say it myself is a fake."

Colonel Roosevelt was told that he was quoted as having said in Chicago that Republicans were not bound to respect nominations obtained by "thuggery," in this case referring to the nomination in the Chicago convention.

"There was no allusion to the Chicago convention," he replied. "The allusions were specifically to what had been done in New York, Indianapolis and Denver. No such sentence as that including the word 'thuggery' was used."

"What I stated was that such conventions as those in New York, Indianapolis and Denver were in no way representative or binding on Republicans. I stand on what I said."

"Any story that does not come from me is a fake," Colonel Roosevelt said in reply to a question that the managers of the National Roosevelt league had obtained an option on a hall in Chicago to hold a rump convention if necessary. Alexander H. Revell, president of the league, also voiced his denial.

CATHOLIC CENSUS

15,015,569 Members of the Church in the United States.

New York, March 29.—There are 15,015,569 Roman Catholics in the United States proper, according to advance sheets of the 1912 edition of "The Official Catholic Directory," published and copyrighted by P. J. Kennedy & Sons, of this city.

A year ago the Catholic population of the country was 14,618,761 and, consequently, the gain shown is 396,808. Ten years ago the Catholic population of the country was 10,976,757, which shows that during the decade the Catholic increase has been 4,038,812. Going back twenty years, it is found that the Catholic population was 8,615,185, so that during the past twenty years the Catholic population has almost doubled.

FEDERAL FORCES ARE SURROUNDED

General Aubert Hard Pressed
by Mexican Rebels.

MADE MASTERLY RETREAT

With Escape to South the Only Avenue of Escape Open, He Faces Annihilation.

Jimenez, Chihuahua, Mexico, March 29.—General Aubert is now surrounded twenty miles west of here, according to official advices from the front. The Liberals say there is no chance for him, as he has been driven off the line of communication and is pressed on all sides.

Aubert succeeded in making his getaway under cover of darkness, and when the Liberals opened with heavy artillery fire and there was no response, it was learned that the federalists were gone. General Salazar ordered pursuit immediately.

Aubert was overtaken on the Parra river and the rebels attacked his rear guard. General Salazar, with his cavalry, flanked the federal right, and General Luis Fernandez, with more cavalry, flanked the left, leaving only a southern retreat open to the federalists.

Aubert has thus far succeeded by his masterly retreats in keeping the main body of General Orozco's army occupied in chasing him through the hills west of Jimenez, while the main body of the federalists, under General Huerta, is concentrating at Torreon, attempting to make it impregnable.

Aubert, with his 1259 men, came from Torreon by way of Mapim through the mountains, and by threatening Jimenez made it impossible for Orozco to follow up his brilliant victory at Corralitos by pursuing the routed federalists as they fled toward Torreon. Had his own base at Jimenez not been endangered by Aubert, Orozco could have easily annihilated the fleeing remnants of the joint commands of Salazar and Blanco when he defeated them on Sunday.

Aubert, with his 1259 men, came from Torreon by way of Mapim through the mountains, and by threatening Jimenez made it impossible for Orozco to follow up his brilliant victory at Corralitos by pursuing the routed federalists as they fled toward Torreon. Had his own base at Jimenez not been endangered by Aubert, Orozco could have easily annihilated the fleeing remnants of the joint commands of Salazar and Blanco when he defeated them on Sunday.

When the federalists were finally dislodged they fled to the southward and were pursued till darkness prevented further pursuit and it was not supposed they would return.

Encountering more rebels to the south, they came back on Wednesday, with the intention of cutting the National railway north of Jimenez and isolating Orozco from his base of supplies at Chihuahua and forcing him to withdraw from Santa Rosalia and Chihuahua to maintain unbroken his communication with his port of entry at Juarez.

Aubert's forces were halted, however, a second time at the San Pedro ranch by a Liberal force under General Salazar, and after a skirmish retreated in good order to Villa Lopez where he took cover under the protecting banks of the Acequia in the irrigated fields of that region. The rebels spent the night trying to surround him, but found him missing, and then the pursuit began.

Orozco has about 3500 rebels at Jimenez, about 2500 between Jimenez and Escalon and about 2000 at Santa Rosalia and Chihuahua.

With Aubert's forces out of the way, Orozco feels that he could overcome the federal force gathering under Huerta at Torreon.

It is reported that the federalists lost in killed and wounded about 300 at Corralitos and the rebels about 100. In the fighting around Jimenez Tuesday it consisted mostly of artillery dueling and the casualties were not over fifty on both sides.

FIVE DIE IN FIRE

Hanover, Pa., Family Perishes in Burning House.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., March 29.—A father, mother and three children were roasted alive in their home in Hanover, a suburb of this city.

They were Charles Mellick, thirty years old; Mrs. Charles Mellick, aged twenty-eight years, and Wylady, Emily and Stanley Mellick, six, four and one year old, respectively.

Mrs. Mellick was found lying face downward on a bed, with the two youngest children under her arms. The oldest girl was found in a trunk with her legs protruding from under the lid, where she had crawled in a frantic effort to escape the flames. The father's body was found in the cellar. All were burned to a crisp.

The flames spread to an adjoining dwelling and consumed it, but the family there escaped.

ALLEN OUTLAW CAPTURED

Detectives Get Another of the Court House Murderers.

Hillsville, Va., March 29.—Claude Swanson Allen, one of the outlaws charged with the court house assassinations on March 14, was captured by a posse headed by Detective Payne. He was armed, but made no resistance and had been living on bread and water. He was brought to Hillsville.

That Jack Allen, in an effort to save his son, Friel, from the electric chair is giving away his brothers and his nephews is demonstrated by the capture of both Sidna Edwards and Claude Allen, for nobody believes that the detectives could have located this last outlaw and captured him without bloodshed unless some one acquainted with his whereabouts had given them information leading to his exact location. That the three other outlaws will be caught is now a foregone conclusion.

WIFE LEAVES $1600 STUFFED IN COUCH

Poor Harrisburg Laborer Surprised at Find.

Harrisburg, Pa., March 29.—Mrs. Fred Harp, wife of a laborer living in a small house, almost a shanty, in what is known as the "Ant Hill Terrace" district of Harrisburg, died after a long illness, and to the surprise of everyone left $1600. It was hidden in a couch. Nearly all was in $5 bills.

Harp is a laborer and has had a hard time to get along. His wife also worked, but no one ever suspected that she had succeeded in saving any money.

When she died Mrs. Harp told her husband he would find enough money in a croch to pay for her funeral and adjured him not to sell the furniture. Harp attached much significance to the last remark and made a search of an old couch, finding the money. It represented the savings of his wife for many years.

TAX INDUSTRY TO DEATH

Bill Aimed at Phosphorus Match Factories Passes House.

Washington, March 29.—The bill by Representative Hughes, of New Jersey, Democrat, virtually taxing out of existence the phosphorus match industry in the United States, was passed by the house after a heated debate.

The vote, 163 to 30, was remarkable in that Minority Leader Mann was the only Republican who joined the Democratic opposition to the measure. The high death rate among workers in the phosphorus match factories of the country inspired the bill.

Representative Underwood, leader of the majority, took the floor to argue against the measure on the ground that it established a precedent that was highly dangerous.

If the prohibitory tax were imposed, he contended, congress could tax out of existence any industry it chose, provided the supreme court upheld the constitutionality of such bills. The main features of the law will go into effect on July 1, 1913, if the bill passes the senate.

NO, SIR, SHE WOULDN'T TALK

Woman Who Beat Jules Verne's Hero Around the World Almost Swoons.

New York, March 29.—Mrs. Elizabeth Seaman (Nellie Bly), the famous newspaper woman, who won fame by circling the globe in 72 days, 6 hours, 10 minutes and 39 seconds, was fined $500 for contempt of court by Judge Hough in the United States district court, Brooklyn, and will be committed to jail Saturday if the fine is not then paid.

Several weeks ago Judge Hough found her in contempt for being a refractory witness and said that her future behavior would govern him in disposing of the case.

Referee Tiney, who is hearing the bankruptcy case of the Iron Clad company, of which Mrs. Seaman was the head, informed the court that Mrs. Seaman refused to answer his questions and was impudent.

Mrs. Seaman almost swooned when the court imposed the sentence.

DAIRY WISDOM.

Rapidity is one of the great essentials in milking a cow. Reject all damaged feed. It will pay you in good milk and excellent butter.

A cow that is a small eater will bear watching. She is pretty sure to be a small producer.

Milk utensils should be made of metal and have all joints perfectly and smoothly soldered. This is a rule laid down in a dairy test.

Many farmers have yet to learn that a cow cannot live upon an unpalatable ration of corn and straw and do anywhere near her best.

In locations where testing associations have been formed the average production per cow has been more than doubled in many instances.

In latitudes liable to frozen draughts it is well to put some salt on the sink strainers and pour a quantity of hot water through. If the pipes are nearly clogged this will tend to clean them out while if they are stopped up the salt will help to melt them out.

It is rather a strange coincidence that for the three winters past, including the present, the lowest temperatures through the north central states have been recorded between the 5th and 7th of January, temperatures of from 20 to 30 degrees below zero having been registered in this brief interval.

Perhaps in no case does the proverb "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure" apply with greater force than in the case of the flock of poultry. It is both cheaper and easier to take the simple necessary precautions to insure the health of the flock than to correct matters after a disease gets a foothold, for after poultry get sick the simplest and often the cheapest cure is to knock them on the head and bury them.

A disease which has been prevalent among the cattle and horses of eastern Oregon for the past year and a half and had been dubbed the "walking sickness" has been lately diagnosed as plain hydrophobia, following a recent investigation into the malady by the state bacteriologist, Professor Pernot. A curious feature of the disease seems to be an attempt on the part of affected animals to follow moving objects. Invariably the disease has been fatal.

On Dec. 27 a good many people gathered on a farm near Raymondville, Tex., to witness the dynamiting of five acres of land, the treatment being given for the purpose of increasing its productive capacity. Holes were bored forty feet apart over this tract and to a depth of five feet, and in these the charges of dynamite were placed and exploded. It is claimed by those who were in charge of the experiment that this treatment will increase the capacity of the soil to hold moisture and will make possible more perfect sub-drainage.

OLD SLOWPOKE'S TURKEY.

Look, is that a turkey gobble? Goodness! How did he escape when so many after turkey?

Did he roost upon a steeple? Where, oh, did this gobble sneak, sir, To escape the butcher's hand?

Did he have this turkey muzzled? That we could not hear him yell! How did this turkey flee the hatchet? Come now, brother, do please tell.

Well, if you must have the story, This turkey was at Slowpoke's store, Where big cobwebs hang in festoons And are rats and mice galore.

Turkey did not dare to holler; Feared the rats would get his skin. Then at Slowpoke's quiet corner No one ever heard of him.

C. M. BARNITZ.

A SCRATCH FLOOR NECESSARY.

Absence of eggs from so many winter egg baskets is explained by the absence of a scratch floor from so many poultry houses. Just as advertising is the business boomer and bound to bring big, so exercise, after good grain, is life to the hen's egg machine and force for her fruit. You may have the finest laying strain, you may feed the finest kind of grain, you may scheme and work with might and main, but if you don't have lively, fresh, red blood capering around that hen's egg capacity, you'll get nothing for your hustle but a fat Biddy bustle.

Success and toe blisters are twin sisters, and the hen that can't show corns on her trillies is a fat laffer. The scratch floor is a health promoter, fat dissolver and profit producer.

Turn those lazy fannies on to a deep littered floor. Change their diet from Bellevue-Stratford to prune diet. They will turn on you a reproachful, can it be possible gaze as you throw a few grains into that deep litter, but when hunger at last penetrates their fat gizzards and they realize it's "root, hog, or die," they'll scratch their bustle off in the twinkling of an eye.

That scratching floor may be of earth, boards or concrete, the last the best.

An open front shed without drafts is bully for the Biddies, for they must have plenty of fresh air while working, and the air carries out the dust.

Dry, sweet, wheat straw is best litter as it is clean and doesn't go to pieces so quickly as leaves, buckwheat and oat straw.

Mixed sound grain fed in litter keeps hens warm, busy, happy, healthy, and under its beneficial exercise we have never had a flock that didn't fill the egg crock.

CORN IN LOUISIANA.

A very interesting change that is going on in those portions of the south where cotton has been the staple crop for generations past is clearly shown in the rapid increase in the production of corn in the state of Louisiana during the past few years. A few years ago the cotton boll weevil made its appearance in the state, and cotton growers seemed to be threatened with bankruptcy. But being compelled to devote cotton land to the growing of corn and other crops has really been a blessing in disguise. Figures that have been compiled show that the production of corn has increased from 19,516,499 bushels in 1905 to nearly 100,000,000 bushels in 1911. In the year 1910 Louisiana corn was sold to Europe and Texas for the first time, and the surplus for the past year has been close to 50,000,000 bushels.

STRIKE SURE IN HARD COAL FIELD

Anthracite Situation Seems Almost Hopeless.

PREPARE FOR SUSPENSION

President White, of Mine Workers, Says Suspension Will Take Place Automatically—Bituminous Men Still Trying For Agreement.

Cleveland, Ohio, March 29.—Miners' union officials said that a strike in the anthracite fields Monday is now unavoidable.

No steps to bring operators and miners together has been taken since they broke off negotiations in New York on March 13.

"A strike in the anthracite fields may be said already to have been ordered," said John P. White, president of the United Mine Workers of America.

"That much of the situation is settled. The strike there will take effect automatically, and it requires no further referendum vote of the union or action by the policy committee. The anthracite men understand thoroughly no wage scale exists upon which they can continue to work after Sunday midnight, and they accordingly must quit."

Whether or not the 350,000 men in the bituminous fields quit work on Sunday at midnight depends on a sub-committee named by operators and miners to agree, if possible, on a compromise wage scale.

This sub-committee went to work after announcing that no tentative plan of agreement had been drawn up and as far as either side could say, there was no immediate prospect of agreeing.

The miners in the anthracite fields are distributed in Pennsylvania as follows: Lackawanna and Wyoming Valley, 75,000; Hazleton and Panther Creek Valley, 40,000; Pottsville and Lykens Valley, 60,000.

ASK TAFT TO ARBITRATE

Mayors Endeavor to Avert Disastrous Labor War at Mines.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., March 29.—The mayors and burgesses of the principal cities and towns of the anthracite coal fields met here at the call of Mayor John V. Kosek to devise plans by which it is hoped to bring operators and miners together and prevent a strike.

The meeting was of a very enthusiastic nature, and Mayor John V. Kosek, of Wilkes-Barre, presided, while Mayor M. E. Golden, of Pittston, was secretary.

Resolutions were adopted calling upon the operators to again confer with the miners and reach some agreement by which the men will return to work and the situation be cleared of its threatening danger.

In the event of both sides failing to meet and attempt to adjust their differences, President Taft is to be asked to take charge of the situation and have a non-partisan board appointed to arbitrate the differences.

The resolutions are to be forwarded at once to the heads of the coal companies, President John P. White, of the United Mine Workers, and to President Taft.

There were present at this conference the following mayors and burgesses: Mayor John V. Kosek, Wilkes-Barre; Mayor James B. Murrin, Carbondale; Mayor M. E. Golden, Pittston; Burgess T. J. Hatten, Edwardsville; Burgess W. D. Morris, Pleymouth; Burgess John Fenner, Ashley; Burgess James J. Cooney, Nanticoke; Burgess John J. McNeilis, Luzerne; Burgess James McLaughlin, Avoca; Burgess W. F. Douchney, Mahanoy City.

The miners' contract expires on April 1, and work is expected to stop on Saturday.

Of the nine demands formulated by the mine workers, negotiations for adjustment are expected to depend on a portion concession of but one of them. Schedule five, which calls for an advance of 20 per cent on the present rate of wages, will be the pivotal point around which ultimate peace will return.

The union officials are positive in their insistence that recognition of the union will be one of the concessions of the companies. This would mean a practically "closed shop" and be a powerful weapon in times of further disputes.

Regardless of how the officials feel toward this demand, a thorough canvass among the men themselves reveals the impression that the rank and file of the employees will not hold out for a strike on this question. From a close investigation among the miners the conclusion follows that upon a referendum vote the men will eventually go back to work for a 10 per cent increase. Anything less than this, however, will hardly be approved.

Reading Won't Use Strike-Breakers. Pottsville, Pa., March 29.—The Philadelphia & Reading Coal and Iron company will make no effort to operate with strike-breakers. The Reading railway has enough coal stored for transportation purposes to last for six weeks, and by cutting off many freight trains this can be made to last much longer.

longer. The Reading expects to move every pound of coal out of the region by Sunday.

Operators Make No Move For Peace

New York, March 29.—It was learned here from an authentic source that the anthracite coal operators are making no move to prevent a suspension of work in the anthracite fields, and that they regard such a suspension at midnight on March 31 as inevitable. No meetings of the committee of ten which conferred with the miners' representatives, have been held since the termination of negotiations, it was said, and none is scheduled.

Taking Tools From Mines

Shamokin, Pa., March 29.—Miners have started taking tools from the coaleries in the Schuylkill region in anticipation of a suspension in the anthracite coal fields on Saturday. Some foreigners are departing for Europe to remain until the expected labor troubles in the coal fields are over.

Company hands were busy about the mines preparing for a state of idleness after Saturday.

MINIMUM WAGE BILL IS PASSED BY LORDS

Measure Intended to Settle British Mine Strike.

London, March 29.—The government's minimum wage scale bill passed through the house of lords. It now goes to the king, who will sign it, the measure then becoming law.

The aim of the bill is to create district boards to settle the question of a minimum wage for individual districts. The miners are now taking a referendum vote on the bill, and if they agree to accept it the coal strike will be at an end.

Mine owners as well as miners took important action to bring to an end the long labor struggle that has brought distress upon millions of persons.

The owners after a prolonged discussion decided to accept the minimum wage bill, without further opposition. Thereby they made certain that all the mines would be opened to the men as soon as they wished to return to work.

As 115,000 men voted against beginning the strike, it is believed that the general ballot, authorized by the federation officials, a majority will vote in favor of a return to work, especially as the view has been growing among the miners that the owners wished to prolong the struggle in order to bleed the unions and make them powerless to renew the struggle for a long time.

It is generally believed, therefore, that the strike may end by next Thursday, although there will be no general resumption of work until after Easter.

Senate In Favor of Lorimer.

BANCROFT, JR., GETS A DIVORCE

Delaware Court Decides in Favor of Young Husband.

GETS CUSTODY OF CHILD

Decision Also Declares the Infant Son, Who Was the Cause of the Suit, to Be Illegitimate.

Wilmington, Del., March 29.—John Bancroft, Jr., was granted a divorce from his wife, Madeline Dupont Bancroft, daughter of Alfred Dupont, the millionaire powder manufacturer.

The court which handed down the decision declares the infant son, who was the cause of the suit, illegitimate, and granted the custody of the Bancroft's first child to Mr. Bancroft.

Mrs. Bancroft noted an exception to the decision as ground for an appeal.

Chief Justice Pennewill and Associate Justices Wooley and Conrad, of the superior court, gave the decision, which was read by Chief Justice Pennewill, as follows:

"After very careful, thorough and serious examination and consideration of the argument, the evidence and the law, we have reached the following conclusions:

"First—That a decree nisi should be entered, divorcing the plaintiff and defendant wife from the bonds of matrimony heretofore existing between them. The court are satisfied that the cause for divorce was shown by affirmative proof aside from many admissions on the part of the defendant.

"Second—That the exclusive custody and control of the child, John Bancroft, should be awarded to the plaintiff.

"Third—That a decree should be entered establishing the illegitimacy of Max Heibler, Jr., the infant defendant."

In reaching this conclusion we have not regarded the letters or other admissions of the defendant wife or Max Heibler, which were received in evidence to be thereafter considered or disregarded by the court, in arriving at their judgment."

T. Bayard Heisel, representing the wife, then noted his exception to the decision. The wife's counter-suit has not been fixed for trial.

The case created a great sensation and at the trial a young woman witness was brought from Germany to testify in behalf of Mrs. Bancroft.

The trial was held in secret, the court having declared that the evidence was unfit to be heard in public.

John Bancroft, Jr., is twenty-seven years old, the only son of John Bancroft, a millionaire and secretary of the Joseph Bancroft & Sons Co., textile manufacturers, of Wilmington, Del.

Mrs. Bancroft, who is twenty-four years old, is the eldest daughter of Alfred I. Dupont, vice president of the Dupont Powder company.

The docket in the office of Prothonotary Churchman read: "John Bancroft, Jr., against Madeline Dupont Bancroft and Max Heibler, Jr., for divorce."

By "Max Heibler, Jr.," named as co-defendant by the young husband, he meant to signify a baby the paternity of which, it was stated, Bancroft denies. The case hinged primarily on the baby.

The divorce suit was the sequel to the elopement on Dec. 18, 1907, of the couple. They were married in Washington by Rev. D. C. McLeod, a Presbyterian minister. The bridegroom was then a student at Princeton. He and the bride went to Munich, Germany, shortly afterward and the husband completed his studies at Heidelberg university. They remained abroad over two years and since then the husband has been associated with his father in the Bancroft Manufacturing company.

The young wife, it was said at the time the suits were filed in June, 1911, had been estranged from her mother, Bessie Gardner Dupont, from whom her father got a divorce.

The allegations in the libel were that while the young wife was in Munich and other European cities, the husband being in Wilmington, she had been guilty of improper conduct with one Max Heibler.

Roanoke Is Without Mayor.

Richmond, Va., March 29.—The Virginia supreme court, in a decision, sustained the corporation court of Roanoke, which removed Mayor Joel H. Cutchin for "misfeasance, malfeasance and gross neglect of official duty" in failing to suppress gambling and disorderly houses. The decision leaves Roanoke without a mayor.

Michigan Passes Equal Suffrage Bill.

Lansing, Mich., March 29.—The house by a vote of 75 to 19 passed the bill providing for a vote at the fall election on a constitutional amendment granting woman suffrage. The bill now goes to the governor for his signature. Governor Osborn recommended the passage of the bill.

Arizona Passes Judiciary Recall.

Phoenix, Ariz., March 29.—The bill submitting the judiciary recall amendment at the next general election passed the lower house. An identical bill is in the hands of the senate committee on constitutional amendments.

A BIG HORSE FEEDING TEST.

Probably the largest experiment in horse feeding ever conducted was the one recently concluded at Fort Riley, Kan., under the supervision of Dr. Campbell, who is connected with the State Agricultural college. Nine hundred and thirty-seven horses were used in the test, and these were divided into fifteen different lots and fed as many different rations. Every meal for every one of these horses was weighed and mixed in the right proportions during a period of 140 days. The purpose of the experiment was to find, if possible, a grain ration that would take the place of oats and give as good results, also to test the feeding value of different hays and to determine the effect of different grain rations upon the health of the horses. When the feeding tests were concluded several things were made clear: First, other feeds can be substituted for oats as a ration for work horses, with as good results and much cheaper. It was proven conclusively that oats alone were a better grain for work horses than corn alone, but more expensive. Horses that were fed oats alone gained on an average sixteen pounds a head, while a like number that were fed corn alone lost twenty-nine pounds apiece in the same time. When corn was fed with the proper amount of alfalfa of the right quality it was found to give just as good results as oats and, besides, was fully 50 per cent cheaper. Alfalfa hay, properly fed, proved to be a more valuable roughage than either timothy or prairie hay and cheapened the cost of the daily ration from 25 to 40 per cent. A ration consisting of six parts of corn, four parts of oats and four parts of bran, together with timothy hay, was rated as the best ration that could be given a horse, though not the cheapest. An old idea was exploded in the experiment—namely, that horses fed oats have more life than those given a ration of corn.

The individual gas heating and light plant for the country or town home is a mighty nice thing, but often very dangerous. An Illinois farmer installed one not long ago, and the other day when he was away from the house the plant exploded, wrecking his home and killing his daughter and sister and severely injuring his wife and other children. The gas plant was in the basement. The top of the container became loose and filled the basement with gas, which spread to and was ignited by an open fire in the kitchen above. As before stated, a gas plant is a nice thing, but like a Jersey bull, it will bear close watching.

A group of American and Canadian capitalists will shortly establish in Brazil the largest beef producing plant in the world. The syndicate has bought 9,000,000 acres of land of the Brazilian government on which cattle can range the year around without danger from freezing or storms. The project will be started with the largest number of cattle it is possible to buy, and its capacity is placed at 500,000 head. The headquarters of the company will be Sao Paulo, 250 miles north of Buenos Aires. Murdo McKenzie of Colorado, a former president of the National Stockmen's association will head the company at a salary of $50,000 a year.

NOT A SECRET

Kathryn Dunne's Story

It is said that in Europe when a woman finds a remedy that does her great good, she keeps it a secret for she does not want any other woman to be able to rival her charms.

American women are different. When they find a good remedy, they want other women to get the benefit too, so they tell their friends.

Miss Kathryn Dunne of N. Y. City is one of these. She says, "When I was in a weakened condition last spring I took Vinol with the greatest benefit and I recommend it highly. Five of my friends are now taking Vinol on account of the benefit I received."

When you are rundown and weak, you need better blood and more strength, and Vinol will give them to you. It is a delicious cod liver and iron preparation without oil and restores untold thousands of pale, nervous, broken-down people to health each year. We give you back your money if Vinol does not help you. People's Drug Store, Gettysburg, Pa.

How She Shopped

"I wasn't responsible," Baird said. "I always had known better than to venture into a department store with a woman bent on shopping, but you see, I was on my wedding trip. So when Anne suggested going shopping I smiled fatuously and consented. "Anne made for the elevators and led me to the topmost floor. Being totally ignorant of the correct method of storming a woman's store, I took it for granted that starting in at the top was the rule, and that you got doped if you didn't begin that way. I believe it was the floor where you get fitted and altered when you buy ready-made. I bashfully slunk along behind Anne as she strolled down mahogany corridors through the doors of which came wails and complaints and storms from women in the process of being altered and fitted. "Just as I opened my mouth to ask Anne what she had bought to be fixed and when she had bought it, she turned on me blandly and said she was ready to go down to the next floor. "There was a furniture display there and I think she priced every piece of it. In half an hour my head was a mixture of Flemish bookcases, mahogany dining room sets, rococo screens and tea wagons. "Much as I loved Anne, I began to feel pale. I figured out that my whole annual income would just about pay for what the dear girl apparently had in mind.

"When she began talking with the attentive salesman about an $800 carved chest I drew her aside. 'My dear,' said I in quavering tones, 'really, you know, we can't afford an eight-hundred-dollar chest.' "Silly!" she said. 'As if I didn't know that! Why, I'm not going to buy any furniture—I'm just looking!'

And she sailed out of there under the outraged eyes of the salesman without turning a hair.

"How women do it I can't figure out—They undoubtedly possess a sort of courage that men lack."

"When I got my breath I found we were on the china and glass and picture floor. We priced about $100,000 worth of stuff there—at least Anne did. The salesman was so impressed by her air that he did his best to sell her a dozen plates, very cheap at $1.50. I assure you that I got cold chills, so realistic was her assumption that possibly if the plates pleased her she might condescend to have them sent to our address.

"And she was absolutely impervious to my agonized glances.

"She considered sets in rock crystal and she turned up her nose at $100 coffee cups. At last she led me down to the floor beneath. It was full of hats—women's hats. Anne almost purred. What on earth she wanted there I couldn't imagine, because I distinctly remembered hearing her say that her trousseau included ten hats.

"She didn't give me a chance to point out to her that she could wear only one hat at a time, because she promptly had the head milliner and two earnest saleswomen surrounding her.

"That girl tried on thirty-three hats by actual count and, as each one was more expensive than its predecessor, you can imagine the state of mind I was in. I never knew there were so many different kinds of birds and feathers and things in the whole world until that day. I saw myself proceeding through the rest of our trip lugging handboxes and just as I was working up an extremely bitter frame of mind Anne smiled sweetly at me and said she believed she was ready to go.

"We left the saleswomen reviving each other and proceeded to the silks and velvets. It was perfectly wonderful how much Anne knew about qualities and wearing abilities. She routed six salesmen before she descended to the linens and lingerie. I won't attempt to relate our visit to that floor, but some time I want to tell you about a $500 tablecloth and napkins to match.

"That last is a sort of mist. I know that at last we found ourselves in the basement among the kitchen furnishings. There Anne simply had a glorious time pricing things. Up to now she had bought absolutely nothing, so I woke up with a start when she ran out from a dark, underground corner with a teakettle in her hand.

"Isn't this a dear?" she asked. "And only 50 cents—think of it! How lovely it will look in the fireplace!" So she bought it.

"That isn't all. When we unpacked it at home she deliberately marked a 12 in front of the 50. Then the first time her cousin, who is one of those women who pride themselves on knowing the value of every article on earth, saw it she threw up her hands.

"My dear!" she cried. 'Did you get that kettle for only twelve dollars and a half? Why, you got a perfectly tremendous bargain. It is worth double—you can't fool me on antiques! Where did you get it?'

"Oh, said Anne, nonchalantly, 'I picked it up while we were away. I just happened to run across it.'

"So, after all," Baird concluded, "I think I see how by spending half a dollar and five hours a woman can really accomplish something when she goes shopping."

Greater Farm Efficiency

Concrete a Profit Maker

By PROF. C. A. OCCOCK, Wisconsin College of Agriculture

The watchword of the present seems to be conservation. This apparently may be applied to all lines of work. Not only is this true in the commercial world, but it will hold true in rural pursuits. The farmer is exerting every effort in obtaining more efficiency from his activities and to do this he is gathering about him every kind of modern machine or convenience that is obtainable.

Concrete on the farm is becoming an important factor and with the advent of this new medium of construction, feeding floors, troughs, racks, fence posts, silos, farm buildings and many useful necessities are being added to the farm equipment. Many of these useful things may be constructed by the farmer himself or his regular help. All that is necessary is a working knowledge of concrete and its reinforcements. In the construction of large buildings a knowledge of the reinforcement of beams and girders is required and such construction should be submitted to an architect or a bridge engineer who is acquainted with these problems.

Materials used in the construction of concrete work are usually proportioned 1-2-4 or 1-2½-5, 1-2-6, 1-4-8, depending upon their character. That is, 1 part cement, 2½ parts sand and 5 parts of gravel or stone. If a layer of mud or clay settles over the sand, do not use it.

Gravel or stone should be free from sticks, leaves or any foreign substance which would in any way destroy the action of the cement upon the sand and gravel. If clay is present, always wash it out by pouring water over the sand or gravel which is to be spread over an inclined screen.

Spread the cement upon the sand and gravel if they are in combination on the water-tight platform or mix until the whole mass is of uniform color. Then add water unless screened gravel or crushed stone is being used, in which case place the cement upon the sand, mixing until a uniform color; add gravel or crushed stone and mix thoroughly, and then add enough water to produce the proper consistency. Hoes or shovels can be used to mix the concrete, but the latter are more often employed. Concrete should be mixed in small quantities, only such amounts being prepared as will be used up immediately. Concrete hardens so rapidly that lumps often begin to form throughout the whole mass before it can be used. Under these conditions the whole amount should be discarded. Concrete ought not to stand more than 25 or 30 minutes after the ce-parts crushed stone or gravel are used in the 1-2½-5. The mixture selected will depend upon the nature of the work in which it is used.

In order to determine the amount of cement necessary for any amount of concrete, estimate the number of cubic yards and multiply that number by the figure in the table opposite, "Bbls. cement per cubic yard of concrete," and under "mixture to be used." The amount of sand and of stone is determined in the same way. Batch mixing, as indicated by the name, is an intermittent process and is the one most used in silo construction. Under certain conditions the continuous mixing process may be employed. Continuous mixing is done by machinery, the materials being fed into the machine without interruption during the mixing process, which may continue for four or five hours. Batch mixing may be done by machinery if it seems more desirable. Simple mechanical mixers have been very successfully constructed from an ordinary kerosene barrel.

Water should be added until a sloppy mixture is obtained. This will permit the material to be readily poured. The concrete should be prepared upon a water-tight mixing platform, usually about 10x12 feet. In placing the materials upon this platform, some method should be used to get the proper proportions; that is, if a 1-2-4 mixture is used, some simple measure for the materials should be employed whereby this may be easily determined. Weighing is accurate, but somewhat ment is first wet, without being placed.

In placing concrete, the most important thing to be observed is the manner of handling. The materials must not be separated when poured into the forms. Pouring from a considerable height should not be practiced, as the Silo Made of Concrete.

Heavier parts will be separated from the lighter and forced to the bottom of the mass. Good concrete is only obtained when the stones and gravel remain in contact with the mortar.

It is not hard to make the forms for concrete tanks. In fact most any one can invent a form of his own. The amount of stock to be watered at the tank must be taken into consideration when the size is planned. If a rectangular tank is to be used, the proper dimensions can be determined by consulting Table II.

It often happens that around a stock tank there is a mud hole. This can be easily avoided by making a cement platform around the tank extending out six feet on all sides.

In making the forms for the tank, the outside measurements of the inside forms should be one inch greater in both directions than the outside dimensions of the tank. This is necessary to avoid the possibility of any part of the tank being supported by the floor proper. The outer edge of the floor should be one inch lower than the edge surrounding the space to be occupied by the tank. This provides drainage for water that is spilled to be occupied by the tank.

The bill of materials shown above is for a tank ten feet long and six feet wide. The price of such a tank can be easily computed by a local dealer.

Measuring Box Used in Mixing Concrete.

slow. Using a wheelbarrow of known capacity, or counting the shovelfuls is the most common practice and is considered a fairly accurate method. The bottomless box shown in the figure is the best means for this determination.

The sand and gravel should be clean. The following test may be used to determine if the sand is clean: Fill a glass jar one-quarter full of the sand and add clean water until the jar is three-quarters full. Shake well, and
